

Dear Campus Community,

I am pleased to announce that Dr. Mike Seale has accepted our offer to serve as our next Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Dr. Seale is a native of Crawfordsville, Indiana, where he attended Wabash College before continuing his education by earning a Master's and Ph.D. in physics from the College of William and Mary in Virginia. He was a tenured professor of physics, department chair, and director of institutional effectiveness at Carson-Newman University in Tennessee prior to his most recent appointment as Assistant Vice President for Academic Affairs at Lindsey Wilson College in Kentucky.

Dr. Seale comes to C-SC with extensive grant-writing and grant-management experience, in addition to his work as a peer reviewer for regional accreditation. He has also been involved in recent graduate and online program growth at Lindsey Wilson College in business, nursing, and counseling. Outside of the office, Dr. Seale particularly enjoys volleyball and has served as a volunteer coach. He and his wife, Cecelia, are excited about moving to the tri-state area.

Best regards,

President Schellenberger
